Your Childhood Years

Describe yourself as a child:

As a child, I had a very outgoing personality. I always found something to do. I was never short of energy and was very adventurous.

What was it like growing up in your family?

Growing up in my family was great for many reasons. My parents taught us, children, how to learn life lessons by experiencing things in person. I played all types of sports including martial arts. Having my parents appreciate diversity and the experience to learn and grow was a great family dynamic.

What is your earliest memory as a child?

My earliest childhood memory would have been surrounded around the holidays. I remember the smells and spirit of cooking with my mom. She would bake cookies and snacks and send them to friends and families. As a holiday tradition, we would bake cookies on Christmas Eve and take them to the fire department where we lived and give them to the firefighters working.

What was your favorite thing to do?

My favorite thing to do as a child was be outdoors. I was a very adventurous child and wanted to be active. When it came to riding bikes or playing outside that was where I spent my time.

Your parents taught you to value:

My parents valued many things but diversity was a huge one. Both of my parents came from diverse backgrounds and taught us to value that. My parents traveled a lot with us kids to teach h us that cultural diversity was very important in gaining life experience.

What you loved most about your mother and why:

I love my mother's work ethic. She owns her own tax and accounting business. She wears me out with how much work she puts into her business, social and personal life. There is never a time where she isn't working hard towards something she wants.

What you love most about your father and why:

I loved my father's social skills. We could go anywhere and not know anyone. By the time we were leaving, everyone knew my father's name. I loved his ability to be able to communicate with anyone and build connections.

In comparison to others you were:

In comparison to others I was very adaptable. I believe I gained this from my parents' approach to raising us. I have always been able to adapt to new situations with ease.

Your Teenage Years

Describe yourself as a teenager:

Just like my younger childhood years, I was very active in my teenage years. I was a very social person and enjoyed doing activities with my friends.

Your favorite subject(s) in school and why:

My favorite subject in school was mythology. I loved how interesting the history behind humans and how mythology shaped how we are today in civilization.

Your least favorite subject(s) in school and why: My least favorite subject was math. I disliked math because I had a difficult time with the styles and variables. I am a natural problem solver and with math, I believe I struggled with learning a style that worked well for me to understand.

The activities you were involved in and why:

I was involved in many different types of sports. The biggest activity I was involved in was paintball as an early teenager. I loved the teamwork, creativity, and hard work that came into participating in paintball.

The most important influence on you and why: The most important influence on me as a teenager would have been a couple of friends I considered mentors. They were friends of my father but I looked up to them for life influences. I spent a lot of time with them hunting, working, and spending time outdoors. They helped influence me as mentors and advisers towards life.

In comparison to others you were:

In comparison to others, I was very outgoing and had many friends in many places. I took on my father's ability to connect well with people. I have used this as a strength to this day. Connecting with people is difficult but I'm glad to have that ability.

You were talented at: playing several sports and social skills/dynamics.

Your ambition was to:

My ambition was to travel and gain life experience. I was excited to get done with high school so I could join the military and get some adventure under my belt.

Activities/Abilities

Describe your musical abilities or talents:

I am talented in social environments. I have been told "I am the life of the party". I consider social dynamics a talent because I like to be good at connecting with people and learning new things from them.

What other skills or talents do you have? Please describe in detail:

I have a creative ability to focus on detail. I have an eye for style, clothing, and detail. I'm very good at creative problem solving and how to overcome challenges with work.

Describe any special interests you have:

I have many special interests in learning new skills. I like to learn new things that can help me out with day-to-day life. For example, I like to read books on how to communicate emotionally with people to better my connecting skill set.

What physical, artistic, intellectual or social abilities do you feel best about and why?

I feel that my social skills are very high. I am very good at understanding people and where they come from. I use this as a skill of being able to communicate and connect well with people.

How do you achieve the goals you set for yourself?

I achieve the goals that I have in front of me by setting milestones and deadlines. Without setting these in place, it can be easy to get distracted. I am very systematic when it comes to accomplishing my goals.

Personality Characteristics

What is your favorite song and why?

I have many favorite songs but one that stands out is Californication by the Red Hot Chili Peppers. I remember watching the music video as a child and found it unique. Something about the vocals and the beat is relaxing to me.

Who is your role model and why? My role model would be Tony Robbins. He is a life and business coach. He also is a very powerful motivational speaker. I look up to him for many reasons but the main reason being his passion behind helping people. He is an extremely motivating person and truly cares about his craft. I find him very impressive.

What is your favorite color and why?

My favorite color is blue. I like that color because it reminds me of summer and clear blue skies. The color resembles warmth and summer activities to me.

If you could travel anywhere where would you go and why?

I would get on a one way plane to Australia. I have always been intrigued by the way of life down under. A massive plot of land with a unique way of life and culture. I would love to spend time on the Gold Coast and indulge in surfing.

What is your favorite animal and why?

My favorite animal would be a dog. More specifically, two breeds; Dutch Shephard and Belgian Malinois. I like those breeds because they are very intelligent, loyal, and obedient. They are very adaptable and protective. I like them because they are truly a man's best friend.

What would your best friend say about you?

My best friend would say that they can depend on me. Something I value very highly is loyalty and being there for my friends when they need me.

What is your favorite sport and why?

My favorite sport would be golf. I like golf because it is a game competing against yourself. You can teach yourself patience as it can be frustrating. Every time you swing the club, you have a choice to practice a better swing.

Where do you see yourself 5 years from now?

I see myself in five years having financial stability and freedom. I want to own multiple businesses and have passive income. I also would like to be settled down in a relationship and working on having children of my own.

What do you value and why? I value emotional strength. I believe that having strong emotional strength is one of the biggest building blocks to relationships in all walks of life. I believe we are taught that we have to be strong emotionally but not how to be emotionally strong. Having a strong emotional characteristic is something I value in myself and my relationships.

Have you ever been told you resemble someone famous? If so, who?

When i was in the Marine Corps, I was told that I resembled Elvis Presley. The barber at the shop I would get my haircut at would yell "Elvis has entered the building" when I would walk in. I like to have a simple yet classy style and I believe that is where they got the resemblance from.
